THE FRIAR'S NOOK

I got to go on a field trip this week! After meeting with the Confirmation class on Wednesday I went with them to L'Arche for a retreat on Friday. I was supposed to be an adult supervisor (apparently I've got them fooled). It was nice to see them open up and think about what it means to be truly a Christian. Be sure that I have them targeted for ministries as soon as they are confirmed (although some are already serving in one form or another)! I hope to have other opportunities to be with them throughout the year.

The Youth Group met on Monday and we are still looking for young adults to help Liam in this ministry. All it takes is a love of the kids (and sometimes ear plugs as it can get loud) but their enthusiasm is a great reward!

We met with the contractors who did the brick work over the Summer and Fall. Believe it or not they still have some work to do, but for now it's too cold.

My installation as Pastor with Bishop Kasun was really nice. I'm so glad I had him to do it. He is quite a funny guy and in fact you may see some behind the scenes photos to prove it. He left his galoshes here so we're thinking of holding them ransom! If he had left his mitre it would go immediately into my hat collection. I want to thank everyone who helped make this celebration as nice as it was.

I have been in touch with the local high schools (or rather they have been in touch with me) and although I am busy, I would like to make time for these kids. They are the future of the church and I want them to know it and that they are always welcome, especially here at St. Joan of Arc.

I have spent a lot of time cleaning. Apparently, the friars were afraid to throw away anything. I have been getting rid of a ton of papers – like some telephone bills from the 1970's! I will continue upstairs and then work my way down. Hopefully by Springtime we will have some space. You might notice little changes around here as I discover things. For instance, I have recently labelled all the rooms we use. After a year I still wasn't sure which was which. I hope to keep making little improvements as I recognize them. Keep your eyes open!

*Peace, love and joy,
Fr. Bob*
