WORKING WONDERS FOR PEOPLE WITH SPECIAL NEEDS...

Vincent started with mental issues in his early teens but, in his family, those problems were not discussed and “you didn’t ask for help”. While Vincent held down jobs in kitchen and stores, he lived in a household with a drug dealer. Fearing arrest, he fled to Toronto only to recognize that he had a problem with drugs, too. Vincent found help in Covenant House’s shelter, healthcare centre and Arts & Minds program. “Covenant House has done more for me than I can ever say. I’m getting my life back together.”

In Toronto alone, there are at least 1,500 homeless youth on any given night. On an annual basis, ShareLife agencies provide food, shelter, guidance, care and counseling to more than 10,000 young people in the Greater Toronto Area.

Next Sunday, April 29, 2012 is ShareLife Sunday

MAN’S FREEDOM

(continuation of last week’s bulletin)

What are the sources of the morality of human acts?

The morality of human acts depends on three sources: the object chosen, either a true or apparent good; the intention of the subject who acts, that is, the purpose for which the subject performs the act; and the circumstances of the act, which include its consequences. (#367, Compendium of the Catechism of the Catholic Church)

When is an act morally good?

An act is morally good when it assumes simultaneously the goodness of the object, of the end, and of the circumstances. A chosen object can be itself vitiate an act in its entirety, even if the intention is good. It is not licit to do evil so that good may result from it. An evil end corrupts the action, even if the object is good in itself. On the other hand, a good end does not make an act good if the object of that act is evil, since the end does not justify the means. Circumstances can increase or diminish the responsibility of the one who is acting but they cannot change the moral quality of the acts themselves. They never make good an act which is in itself evil. (#368, Compendium of the Catechism of the Catholic Church)

Are there acts which are always illicit?

There are some acts which, in and of themselves, are always illicit by reason of their object (for example, blasphemy, homicide, adultery). Choosing such acts entails a disorder of the will, that is, a moral evil which can never be justified by appealing to the good effects which could possibly result from them. (#369, Compendium of the Catechism of the Catholic Church)
