PALM SUNDAY

REFLECTION

Palm Sunday Reflection by Robert Selvadurai

What a special Sunday, even more special than most other Sundays. We begin the service welcoming Jesus (into Jerusalem), praising Him, worshiping Him. Singing Hosanna in the highest. Ironic on such a joyful, hopeful and profound occasion we then pronounce the passion, the suffering and death of our Lord. This shows how we can be fickle as human beings. One minute/day we can love our Lord and recognize Him as our Messiah and the next minute/day we deny Him. Not only deny Him but to be part of the crowd shouting "crucify Him, crucify Him". Nevertheless, Jesus humbles himself. First to become man, to show how special man is to Him (and not any other creature of creation) and then dies for our sins and for the love of us. This in the face of man's rejection of Him. He sacrifices Himself as the perfect sacrifice to 'love the lovable and forgive the unforgivable' as G.K. Chesterton said. Does that not make our hearts to cry out for his unending and undeserved mercy? In response, we need to learn to humble ourselves to the mercy of God to live as Jesus taught us. To love God with all our hearts, mind and soul and to love others. We can only do that if we spend time with Him, to adore Him, to worship Him, to love Him, to beg for His mercy every day. To tell others of the truth of the love of God and together sing "Hosanna to the King" I would also add, we can show our honour to Jesus in simple ways as Paul records how we should pay homage in his letter to the Philippians. When we enter our churches, let us genuflect (if we are able) to the Tabernacle to profess that we believe He is truly present in the Eucharist and bow every time we hear the name of Jesus, especially during Holy Mass. Perhaps we can use this time during Lent and especially this Lent as we are somewhat forced to spend time in isolation, to draw ourselves closer to Jesus, humbly.
