SAINT OF THE WEEK

St. Peter Canisius

Doctor of the Church

In 1565, the Vatican was looking for a secret agent to get the decrees of the Council of Trent to all European bishops. It was a dangerous assignment as the first envoy carrying the decrees was robbed of the precious documents by hostile Protestants. Rome needed someone courageous and above suspicion. They chose Peter Canisius, a well-known Jesuit who had founded colleges that even Protestants respected. Importantly, he wrote Catholic catechisms to defend the Church against Reformation heresies. Peter believed in the importance of understanding our Catholic faith. Try to resolve to read a portion of the new Catechism, for example, a page a day. Before we can spread our faith we must have a solid foundation in it ourselves.

St. Peter Canisius, pray for us!

Preparing To Meet the Lord

The readings for this Advent reflect anticipation, contemplation, joy, conversion, discernment, repentance, hope, faith, and--last but not never least--charity. They are always within the context of historical events and realities involving men and women who face difficulties and struggles similar to those that confront us today.

Joseph Cardinal Ratzinger wrote that Advent is also about shaking off spiritual slumber and sloth: "So Advent means getting up, being awake, emerging out of sleep and darkness." As the Catechism of the Catholic Church states, "When the Church celebrates the liturgy of Advent each year, she makes present this ancient expectancy of the Messiah, for by sharing in the long preparation for the Saviour's first coming, the faithful renew their ardent desire for his second coming" (CCC 524).

Advent is about being prepared to meet Christ--not on our terms, but on His terms. By preparing us to meet the tiny Incarnate Word of God lying in a manger, Advent also directs our hearts and minds toward the return of that child as glorious King and Lord of all. ~ Carl E. Olson | Dec 3, 2006 www.ignatiusinsight.com
