THE SACRED LITURGY THIS WEEK

Saturday June 11 - St. Barnabas, was a Jewish Levite who lived with the early Christians in Jerusalem and was one of the first to understand that the mission of the church was universal. He was the companion of Saint Paul who introduced him to the Apostles. Barnabas and Paul were leaders of the church at Antioch (present day Turkey). He also preached in Asia, Cypress, Alexandria and Rome and is considered the founder of the Cypriot Church. He was stoned to death at Salamis about 38 AD.

1ST SPIRITUAL WORK OF MERCY - ADMONISH SINNERS

This work of mercy - "tough love," you could call it - is one of the hardest to practice in the western world today because we live in the "I'm-OK-you're-OK" culture. I have my personal set of values, and you have your own set of values, and we are each free to practice those values as long as we do not do grievous bodily harm to others in the process (although that limitation is waived when the "others" in question are unborn children, the chronically ill, and elderly). After all, what could be a worse, what could be a more politically incorrect, than to tell others, "You're not OK: you're harming yourself and others, at least spiritually and psychologically, if not also physically and sociologically?"

If you really want to be unpopular - try admonishing someone today for, say, swearing in public or wearing provocative clothing or talking loudly in church. Try objecting to the widespread availability of pornography, or engaging in non-violent protests outside an abortion clinic, or try explaining to a gay friend that his or her lifestyle is unnatural and that he or she will never find true fulfillment, peace, or healing but through Jesus Christ. Nine times out of 10, the end result, no matter how gently and compassionately they are performed, is to be branded an intolerant bigot.

The problem is that we live in a society dominated by people who have not made any real psychological or moral progress since they reached adolescence. Thus, they stumble through life with an adolescent understanding of love.

To be "loved," to them, means to be affirmed in everything they want to do that does not cause anyone else (except unborn children, the chronically ill, and elderly) grievous bodily harm. Imagine telling someone like that, "Hey, I think you are doing something wrong; I think what you are doing can lead to your spiritual self-destruction and, perhaps, to the spiritual destruction of others, too." They'll likely complain that you are practicing intolerance and bigotry. Yet, it is to spiritually adolescent people like this - to a whole society dominated by such people - that we are called to "speak the truth in love".

It is certainly not easy to do. It takes the virtue of prudence as well: finding just the right moment and just the right words, and saying them in a way that clearly affirms the human dignity of the person you are admonishing, even as they challenge him or her to fulfill his or her highest potential.

Saint Faustina set an excellent example for us in this regard. In her convent in Poland she sometimes discerned the call of the Holy Spirit to practice such "tough love." She actually became known in her religious community for her boldness in admonishing even older and more educated sisters in religion for their sins of malicious gossip, and some of them, in the end, grudgingly respected her for it.

SL ShareLife

Working wonders with families in our neighbourhoods ...

A few years ago, Lauren was hospitalized at 16 years of age after receiving a severe beating from her mother. The violence had been going on for several months, and Lauren was afraid to talk about it. Eventually, her mother faced charges of abuse and Lauren was removed from her family's home. She came to Sancta Maria House looking for a more permanent, safe place to live. Lauren spent that last 2 years here and has made many positive gains. Through the counseling of supportive staff, she was able to let go of the anger from her past and focus on making a bright future for herself. Lauren is grateful for all of the devoted staff at ShareLife-supported Sancta Maria House for making such a wonderful difference in her life. Last year, ShareLife-supported Family Service agencies provided family counselling to over 5,100 people in the Greater Toronto Area.
