Twenty-Sixth Sunday in Ordinary Times

“If they will not listen either to Moses or to the prophets, they will not be convinced even if someone should rise from the dead.”

Introduction

Each Sunday is a celebration of the Easter mystery, the centre of our Christian faith. We gather in the presence of our risen Lord, who is here among us, as he promised his disciples he would be when they come together.

Today’s Readings

First Reading: Amos 6:1, 4-7

The prophet denounces the complacency of wealthy people who live a life of luxury and pleasure while ignoring the dangers into which the society around them is falling.

Second Reading: 1 Timothy 6:11-16

The writer encourages the young leader of the community to take Jesus as his example and so live up to the demands and responsibilities of his position.

Gospel: Luke 16:19-31

Jesus tells the story of the fate of the rich man and the beggar Lazarus, warning his listeners of the danger of neglecting those who are in need of help and assistance.

We look forward to hearing from you.

Father Cosmas' Reflection

Possessing the Wealth of the Heart

The parable of the rich man (Dives) and the poor man (Lazarus) in today's Gospel teaches us that one great evil in the world today is the terrible indifference towards one's neighbor. This is becoming more and more widespread. It is a parable about the responsibility of wealth. The rich man wrongly saw his material riches as evidence of God's love and blessing. Likewise, he believed the poor and destitute, like Lazarus, were cursed by God.

True followers of Christ will not be indifferent to the plight of the poor like the rich man in this story was. God loves the poor and is offended when His children neglect them. In fact, those who show mercy to the poor are in effect ministering to Christ personally (Matthew 25:35-40). Christians are known by the fruit they bear. As people who are also in need of God's mercy and goodness, let us in turn try to be kind, generous and merciful with others. May the Lord be kind to us as we do this.
