Remembered on the Tree of Life

*Jesus said to them, "Amen, amen, I say to you, it was not Moses who gave the bread from heaven; my Father gives you the true bread from heaven. For the bread of God is that which comes down from heaven and gives life to the world."
John 6:32-33*

believe in the one God sent

In the last few years there has been much concern over the job market. While some areas are still dealing with significant unemployment percentages, others are at nearly a record low. Commentators have been saying for months that the unemployment statistics will weigh heavily in this fall's US presidential election. Since Pope Leo XIII issued the encyclical Rerum Novarum in 1891, the church has emphasized the dignity of labor as one of the keystones of a just society and a well-ordered economy. Unbridled capitalism has never been an accepted goal in a theology that always seeks to uphold the common good.

In the Gospel for today, Jesus is asked by the crowd, "What can we do to accomplish the works of God?" after he tells them not to work for food that will perish. His response is that the work of God is to believe in the One God sent.

The workplace of today is vastly different from that of the past. Many businesses and employers have restrictions on what an employee can even have at his or her workstation. But there may be times when it is possible to bear witness to the faith even in the most restrictive of environments. Something as simple as wearing a discreet religious emblem, or sharing a story from church on Sunday, can gently open up a conversation about belief. That can lead to an opportunity to share more or even the chance to invite someone to come to church with you. A simple response like, "I'm blessed today," to the question of, "How are you?" can help frame one's understanding of life in reference to God. It is then easier share that approach to life in a non-threatening way with others. We don't necessarily need big signs in daily life to promote our faith in Christ. But it is our work to do so in any way that we can.

Stewardship – Aug 5, 2012 - 18th Sunday in Ordinary Time

In today's first reading Elijah seems ready to give up. His calling has become a burden. Yet, God gives Elijah the nourishment he needs to continue. Sometimes, in the face of the constant media barrage telling us to seek more and more pleasure and possessions, the stewardship way of life may seem burdensome. The opposite is true. People discover that a lived experience of stewardship is actually very freeing and the stewardship way of life offers many rewards. When we grow weary on the journey, we are blessed to share in the Eucharist which gives us strength.

The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults

The RCIA is a gradual process of education and formation. Whether baptized in another Christian denomination or not baptized at all, the RCIA program helps adults grow in their relationship with God. Classes focus both on the teachings and practises of the Catholic faith as well as the value and application of faith in our daily lives. The process of becoming a Catholic is a four step journey. This journey will take you through the various phases of discerning your call to become a Catholic and the living of that faith. A sponsor accompanies each person desiring to become a Catholic. You may choose your own sponsor or one can be provided. Your sponsor offers support and guidance throughout the RCIA process and is encouraged to attend the weekly classes. If you are interested in more information, please call the parish office at 204-947-0294 by August 31, 2012 to leave your name and where you can be contacted. You will be contacted in the fall for an interview.

Monday, August 6, 2012 is the August Civic Holiday.
