"I have called you friends." Authentic friendship can seem hard to come by these days, especially in our transient society. We move away from family, change jobs, switch parishes, and end up in entirely new places with entirely new people. When we look for new friends, we all have different qualities we're looking for. While we may think of certain standards of behavior necessary to be a "good" friend, we would hardly refer to them as rules or "commandments." In fact, if a friendship or romantic relationship—new or old—becomes characterized by imposed obligations, we would rightly be suspicious. Friendships, we understand, ought to be characterized by freedom. We love the person, even sacrifice for them at times because, within ourselves, we want to maintain the friendship. So why does Jesus use the language of command as he calls the Apostles his friends? "You are my friends if you do what I command you." Jesus is radically transforming the concept of commandment. In the Jewish heritage of the Apostles, they would hear the word "command" and immediately think of the strict Levitical law and distance from God. In introducing the language of friendship, Jesus ties "commandment" to inner freedom of heart. The disciples have this freedom precisely because they know "what [the] Master is doing." Jesus has invited his followers into intimate friendship all along. He shares openly with them. He has patience with their flaws. He isn't scandalized by their failures. He celebrates their successes. We, too, have been called by love and invited into a relationship with Jesus. It is you and I that Jesus chooses and appoints. He does so personally, not from a distant mountain shrouded in clouds. This "new commandment" to "love one another" is received around the shared table in the breaking of the bread.

A Journey Through Grief ...

"Blessed are those who mourn for they will be comforted." Mathew 5:4

Sometimes it is hard to find solace in these words of Jesus when we are experiencing profound grief at the loss of a loved one. Scripture, Catholic tradition and sacramental life speak stories of loss and sorrow; hope and resurrection. In these stories we not only find our own journey but a rich resource for reflection as we live the reality of our own personal grief.

The community of St Mary's Cathedral will be offering a 4 part series on grief for parishioners who have experienced the death of a loved one.

When: Wednesdays: May 30, June 6, 13 & 20
Time: 6:30 – 8:30 pm

Pre-registration is required as there are only 8 spaces. Please call the Parish Office (204) 947-0294 and leave your name. We will get back to you re attendance.
