32nd Sunday in Ordinary Time

We all know the maxim, "Actions speak louder than words." It is part of our cultural heritage. It is one of those truisms that we accept. We all know that there are plenty of words that lead to action. Words themselves have their own power. If they didn't, people wouldn't be writing essays, blogs, diatribes, commentaries, or advertisements. Very often, we use words to get people to take action. How many times have we seen a splashy ad with the words "Buy now!" prominently displayed in an overlay. Advertisers look to include a call to action to seal the deal. So in some ways words are just as important as the actions themselves. Actions by the British government and inflammatory words by pamphleteers push the Continental Congress to write the Declaration of Independence, words that became a call to action on the part of the populace.

This weekend's Gospel is a combination of words and actions. In the first half Jesus is teaching about the dangers of religious hypocrisy. He warns his followers to make sure that their daily actions conform to their religious beliefs. In the second half of the Gospel, Jesus praises the widow who makes a donation to the Temple treasury. Her simple act of kindness spoke volumes about her own devotion and religious convictions. To quote another proverb, she "gave until it hurt."

The life of a Christian is always a balance between words and actions. The words of faith-the doctrine, the preaching, the Bible study, the prayers-give the foundation to who we are as Christians. Without those words, our identity gets muddled. It's one reason we proclaim one of the creeds each Sunday. However, our actions in the world give firm expression to our faith. Without them no one would ever see what Christianity really is: the love of Christ made visible in the world by his followers today.

Many rich people put in large sums. Calling his disciples to himself, he said to them, "Amen, I say to you, this poor widow put in more than all the other contributors to the treasury. For they have all contributed from their surplus wealth, but she, from her poverty, has contributed all she had, her whole livelihood." - Mark 12:41c, 43-44

Remembrance Day: Lest we forget

A day set aside to Honour Sacrifice

On the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month, Canadians are asked to pause for two minutes of silence in memory of the thousands of men and women who sacrificed their lives in military service. In this silence we remember the country's fallen soldiers from the First World War, the Second World War, the Korean War, the Afghanistan conflict and all peacekeeping missions.

Attention all Lectors

The annual lectors workshop will be held Wednesday Nov 14, 2012 from 7:00 to 9:00 pm. We will be reviewing reading procedures, use of the microphone, and you will be receiving your new workbooks. All lectors are encouraged to attend.

Stewardship - Nov 11th - 32nd Sunday in Ordinary Time

“For all of them have contributed out of their abundance”, Jesus says of the rich people who gave large sums to the temple treasury. The widow in today's gospel expresses her love for God by giving of her substance, not from what she had left over. Good stewardship and authentic generosity is not measured by the size of the gift but by the level of the sacrifice.
