Seventeenth Sunday in Ordinary Time—July 24, 2016

FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

Back when I was newly ordained I had to give a conference to the Missionaries of Charity sisters (the order founded by Mother Teresa) in Colombia, and as part of my preparation I read their Rule of Life. In there it stated that the sisters were not to keep any food in storage. All that they received was to be given away each day, counting on God's providence to give them what they needed the next day. When I asked the local Mother Superior why they didn't do that in our parish, she said that they needed to keep it so that they could run their soup kitchen for the poor.

Luke's version of the Our Father that we have in this weekend's gospel passage can be frightening. It's quite simple, more so than the version in Matthew that we Christians use in our daily prayer. In Luke's version we ask for our daily bread each day. That implies that we do not store up extra. Not only does that go against everything our society instills in us, it is very hard to live. Not even Mother Teresa's sisters in our parish tried to live that radical command.

Last weekend Deacon Paul told us that the gospel passages we're getting in July are like "Discipleship 101." I hear those readings this weekend and I am reminded of my need for a radical reliance on God, and perseverance in asking for help. Sometimes I would rather depend on other things. As good stewards, we need to have money in the bank. Our parish has a finance committee. I'm quite convinced that if I were to go to them and say that we were going to give away everything we had, and rely on God to give us what we need for tomorrow, they would think I was crazy. And somebody would probably contact the diocese in London, and the bishop might call me to reprimand me.

So what do we do? I am quite aware that I have never fully lived out the Gospel call. I never will. The passage this weekend reminds me that I must never allow myself to be complacent; there is always room for growth. Last weekend in this column I mentioned that I was away learning how to best use my unique qualities to become a more effective leader. I didn't plan on having to change anything. I thought I was just going to learn some better habits based on what I was already doing. I was wrong. It turns out that I will actually have to expend some effort and change a few things if I want to live by the principles I profess. It requires work! It also requires prayer, and a reliance on God. It's one more lesson in discipleship. I pray that all of us continue learning.

Liturgy Corner

Part 6 of a 12 part series about the design of Catholic churches

Part 6: The Altar, Continued

The size and shape of the altar should be in proportion to the church. Decoration near the altar table should be moderate, preferably not in front of it and never on top of it. The mensa (top) should be covered with a white cloth. At the beginning of Mass the Book of the Gospels may be processed to and placed on the altar. During the Liturgy of the Eucharist the Roman Missal and sacred vessels will also be brought to the altar. Candlesticks should be placed on or near the altar, but in such a way they do not obstruct the view of the faithful. On or near the altar there should be a cross with an image of the crucified Christ, calling to mind the passion of the Lord. This may be the processional cross (General Instruction of the Roman Missal, 304–308).

The 2nd step of RCIA The Catechumenate

This length of time varies, depending on how the person is growing in faith, what questions they encounter along the way, and how God leads them on this journey. During this time, Catechumens consider what God is saying to them in the Scriptures, what changes in their life they need to make to respond to God's inspiration, and what Baptism in the Catholic Church means. When ready to make a faith commitment to Jesus in the Catholic Church, they request baptism and celebrate the Rite of Election.

If you or someone you know would like to know more about becoming Catholic, please let us know. The Church welcomes all! Catholics who want to help welcome others into the Church are needed too. Contact Kevin Mannara, CSB, at the parish office or at kmannaracsb@gmail.com. There is no obligation for those seeking to initiate a relationship with Christ or to learn more about the Catholic Church.
