From The Pastors Desk...

During the season of Lent we've been looking at the ways that we don't always live out what we say we believe. Last week Deacon Paul explained how this series on "Catholic Atheists" is meant to perhaps shock us a little with the title, but really to ask us to look at ourselves, and how well we actually measure up to living out our faith in God. We've looked at how much we trust in God's love for us, how much we pray, and then how much we actually trust God. This weekend it gets even more difficult: We're looking at how well we actually get to know Jesus, how well we recognize him.

I can't even begin to count the times that I have been absolutely, positively sure that I am correct about something, only to find out later that I am completely "off base." My reaction when I learn the truth can range from relief to embarrassment to indignation, depending on the situation. I can think that a friend has betrayed me, when in reality they are looking out for my best interests. Conversely, I have been fooled into thinking that someone was really helping, when they actually were taking advantage of me. I've judged so many people, in so many ways, and so many times I've been wrong. One of the best gifts I've been given was when I entered recovery several years back. I finally learned that I'm not always in the right... that I have lots to learn from others. Mostly, I have learned to try to withhold judgement, to give others the benefit of the doubt before I start making assumptions about their motives.

Jesus is very clear towards the end of this weekend's gospel passage: If you were blind, you would have no sin. But now that you say, "We see," your sin remains." The problem is that the Pharisees think they know who Jesus is. In reality, they don't. It is the man who was blind who is open enough to learn, who asks, "And who is he, sir?"

Lent is a great opportunity to get to know Jesus better. What is he like? What does he want us to do? Where might we recognize him in our lives today? Maybe this is a good opportunity to spend some time with him and find out!

Reflection for the Week

"He put clay on my eyes and I washed, and now I can see" John 9:15

After Mass or during personal prayer, ask God to open our hearts to amazement and wonder.

Taize Service on Thursday, April 6th, 2017 at 7:30pm in Rosary Chapel
Taize prayer is a style of worship that takes the form of quiet, meditative music interspersed with scripture and a time of peaceful silence.

SCRIPTURE SHARING

Every Monday after 12:10pm Mass
We will gather in Rosary Hall for an hour to discuss the readings of the upcoming Sunday.

Bring a brown bag lunch if you like.

Liturgy Corner by Kevin Mannara

The Liturgy of the Word and the Liturgy of the Eucharist together make up one celebration. The Liturgy of the Word is the foundation on which the Liturgy of the Eucharist is based. In the Liturgy of the Word we hear God's call to be the people of God and we hear how much God has done for us and continues to do for us. The Liturgy of the Eucharist is a response to that call and to the love that has been shown to us. Our response can only be to "do Eucharist," that is, to give thanks and praise to the One who has given us everything.

The word of God is meant for the community. Today, we have an individualistic notion of religion. We tend to relate to God as individuals. This is very different from the Jewish concept of the religious community. God took the people of Israel as the chosen people, not as individuals, but as a whole people. We address God in this way because of our relationship through baptism with the greater community of the Church.

Women are creating a future filled with hope in Syria

This week, open your heart to the reality of women living in a country at war. Listen to the voice of Hannan, a Syrian woman who tells us how our partner's training centres are helping to change the female workforce and the financial autonomy of women in her region. "Through the training course, I personally evolved a lot as a person. Today, I dream of teaching sewing and running a learning centre." Thanks to your support during Share Lent this year, 280 Syrians will have access to an 11-week training course in sewing and psychosocial services!

Next week is Solidarity Sunday and the Share Lent collection will take place. Please, be generous!
