Twenty-ninth Sunday in Ordinary Time

EVERYTHING BELONGS TO GOD

The first reading from the prophet Isaiah concerns the Persian King Cyrus, called the Lord's "anointed." Cyrus deserves this title because he ended the Babylonian captivity of the Jews. However, Isaiah reminds us that it was God who gave Cyrus his power. He may be a great king, but "I am the LORD and there is no other," says God (Isaiah 45:5). Today's Gospel is also concerned with worldly power. In the passage from Matthew, the Pharisees try to trick Jesus into speaking against the emperor. His famous answer is the perfect reply. Like the kings of old, Caesar can be given the respect due his position, but everything belongs to God. In the second reading, Paul gives thanks for all who are faithful to Jesus Christ and his gospel. He, too, reminds us that our call and the power to be faithful come from God.

Eco-Spirituality: Befriending the Earth

All of creation carries the Divine within it and reveals God's love for us. Could we develop an attitude of reverence toward the natural world, recognizing its intrinsic value and not just its usefulness? In this season of Thanksgiving, we will explore together the meaning and practice of a "mutually enhancing" relationship between humans and the earth. The day will include presentations, videos, discussion, reflection time and a celebration of the Eucharist.

Facilitators: Ferdinanda Van Gennip and Bruce Burton

Suggested offering: $25 includes lunch

Thursday October 23, 9am – 4pm

Journaling 11: Finding Meaning in the Depth (A)

Now that we have become familiar with the context of our story, we continue on with an exploration of our own depth. Following the contents that come from these more fluid aspects of the story we have already uncovered, we learn to recognize and appropriate the symbols connected with our inner depth. Thus, we reach forward and translate these stirrings in a fresh vision of the future. Bring your journal notebook.

Facilitator: Marie-Anne Quenneville o.s.u.

Suggested offering: $25 includes lunch and snacks
