WORKING WONDERS FOR

FAMILIES... At four years old, Joe witnessed his father severely attack his mother and was also a victim of physical abuse. By the time he was seven, his rage was so intense that he would lash out at his mom and sister. Joe's mother went to Catholic Family Services of Durham's Safer Families Program to help her learn to manage Joe's violent behavior. By processing their trauma, Joe, his mom and his sister are slowly healing, rebuilding their lives and regaining their self-esteem. The Safer Families Program prevented Joe from becoming part of the child welfare system in a punitive way. He looks forward to going back to school soon and seeing his friends again. Our network of Catholic Family Services offices collectively reach nearly 100,000 clients, serving them in more than 25 languages.

SAINT BENEDICT MEDAL

The Saint Benedict Medal is a Catholic sacramental medal containing symbols and text related to the life of Saint Benedict of Nursia.

The medal is one of the oldest and most honoured medals used by Catholics and due to the belief in its power against evil is also known as the "devil chasing medal". As early as the 11th century, it may have initially had the form of Saint Benedict's cross, and was used pope Leo IX.

The reverse side of the medal carries the Vade retro satana ("Step back, Satan") formula which has been used by Catholics to ward off evil since the 15th century. Sometimes carried as part of the rosary, it is also found individually.

In widespread use after its formal approval by Pope Benedict XIV in the 18th century, the medal is used by Catholics to ward off spiritual and physical dangers, especially those related to evil, poison, and temptation.

History

The exact time and date of the making of the first Saint Benedict Medal are not clear; however, it is likely that may have initially had the form of a cross. Catholic tradition holds that as young Benedictine, Pope Leo IX attributed his recovery from a snake bite to that cross. After becoming a pope, Leo IX enriched the St. Benedict cross to the form of a medal, and gave it blessings and indulgences.

Saint Vincent de Paul, who died in 1660, appears to have been acquainted with the Medal and the Sisters of Charity founded by him have worn it attached to their rosary beads.

The Medal's Symbolism

On the front of the medal is Saint Benedict holding a cross in his right hand, the object of his devotion, and in the left his rule for monasteries. In the back is a poisoned cup, in reference to the legend of Benedict, which explains that hostile monks attempted to poison him: the cup containing poisoned wine shattered when the saint made the sign of the cross over it (and a raven carried away a poisoned loaf of bread). Above the cup are the words Crux sancti patris Benedicti ("The Cross of [our] Holy Father Benedict"). Surrounding the figure of Saint Benedict are the words Eius in obitu nostro praesentia muniamur! ("May we be strengthened by his presence in the our of our death"), since he was always regarded by the Benedictines as the patron of a happy death.

On the back is a cross, containing the letters CSSML – NDSMD, initials of the words crux sacra sit mihi lux! Non draco sit mihi dux! ("May the holy cross be my light! May the dragon never be my overlord!"). The large CSPB stand for Crux Sancti Patris Benedicti ("The Cross of [our] Holy Father Benedict"). Surrounding the back of the medal are the letters VRSNSMV – SMQLIVB, in reference to Vade retro satana: Vade retro Satana! Nunquam suade mihi vana! Sunt mala quae libas. Ipse venena bibas! ("Begone Satan! Never tempt me with your vanities! What you offer me is evil. Drink the poison yourself!") and finally, located at the top is the word PAX which means "peace".

Use of the Medal

Lay Catholics are not permitted to perform exorcisms, but they can use the Saint Benedict Medal, holy water, the crucifix, and other sacramentals to ward off evil. The Saint Benedict Medal in the middle of a Celtic Cross is believed to be a powerful tool against evil influences.

This medal is used in numerous ways:

- On a chain around the neck
- Attached to one's rosary
- Kept in one's pocket or purse
- Placed in one's car or home
- Placed in the foundation of a building
- Placed in the centre of a cross

The use of any religious article is intended as a means of reminding one of God and of inspiring a willingness and desire to serve God and neighbour. It is not regarded as a good luck charm or magical device. According to H.C. Lea (1896), "As a rule...it suffices to wear [the medal] devoutly, but, if some special favour is desired, it is advisable on a Tuesday to say five Glorias, three Aves and then three more Glorias to secure the protection of St. Benedict."

It is supposed to be effective in many ways:

- To destroy witchcraft and all other diabolical and haunting influences
- To impart protection to persons tempted, deluded, or tormented by evil spirits
- To obtain the conversion of sinners into the Catholic Church, especially when they are in danger of death
- To serve as an armour against temptation
- To destroy the effects of poison
- To secure a timely and healthy birth for children
- To afford protection against storms and lightning
- To serve as an efficacious remedy for bodily afflictions and a means of protection against contagious diseases
