

*'Twas eleven days before Christmas when this little ditty was due
Three hundred and sixty four days from last year's, my how the time flew.*

*It seems as the years pass, this dimension of time accelerates
Only with an acquired vintage does this concept reverberates.*

So off to the laptop I was ordered to flee

Three Ruminations were required, a.s.a.p.

Voila this year's effort for what it is worth

With humour, and reflection, and even some mirth.

Our Christmas is upon us, it starts but today

Not back in November as our retail stores say.

We launch into a season of marvel and hope

Garlands and lights a la kaleidoscope.

*We are really good at celebrating a Christmas past
Peace and goodwill as the herald angels did broadcast.*

But Christmas is more, oh so very much more

The unending love of God at its very core.

An eternal gift stretching throughout all of time

A divine invitation simple and sublime.

An event so powerful that all has been changed,

A journey to oneness, we are no longer estranged.

An act of reminding of our original name

We are God's Beloved set free from fear and shame.

The divine Incarnation weds heaven and earth

From the womb of the Virgin comes creation's rebirth.

God lives in us in a particular way

Divinity expressed in the frailty of our clay.

So the Spirit of God is every imbued.

Each and everyone one of us divinely pursued.

So Christmas is never really all done

Until that great day when with our God we are one.

Merry Christmas.

Fr. Roy
