Stewardship Moment- Eighth Sunday In Ordinary Time

We are "servants of Christ and stewards of the mysteries of God." This appears to be a rather bold claim by Saint Paul to the Corinthians in today's second reading. We are only the managers, the stewards, the caretakers of God's divine revelation. We are accountable to the Lord for this unimaginably awe-inspiring gift bestowed upon us. Good stewards who are faithful to the Gospel know they are not permitted to adjust the message to suit their circumstances, please themselves or others, or to avoid criticism. Good stewards strive to speak and act in a way that is consistent with Christ's teachings. As we approach the Lenten season, let's reflect on how we may have twisted the Gospel message to suit our own needs. From the February issue of the International Catholic Stewardship Council, Catholic Stewardship
