DISAPPEAR VS LEAVE

Today we celebrate the Ascension of the Lord. Our first reading gives a clue to the meaning of this mystery. You will notice that St. Luke does not speak about Jesus “going away,” but that “a cloud took him from their sight.” There is a difference between “leaving” and “disappearing.” When someone leaves, it suggests separation, even finality. When a person disappears from sight, he might still be very close – in another room. Or even closer. Have you never had the experience of thinking that someone has disappeared, but then realized he is standing right next to you? The fact that the disciples no longer see Jesus does not mean that he has gone from them. At the beginning of the twenty-first century, we are in a better position to understand how someone can disappear from sight – and still be very close. We have movies like “The Matrix” that involve a separate dimensions of reality – one unseen by the other. And scientists are now speaking about the possibility of parallel universes or “multiverses.” All this should not sound strange to us. As Christians we have always known that a parallel realm exists, that it has an effect on our everyday reality and that we can interact with it. - Fr. Philip Bloom
