THE MYSTICAL BODY OF CHRIST

The human body is composed of many members, or organs, each of which has its own function yet shares the personal life and identity of the whole. If my mouth speaks, or my eyes see, or my hand strikes, it is I who speak or see or strike. The ancients ascribed many more functions to the head than modern knowledge would warrant. St. Paul is using the parallel as it was understood in his time, and thus when he speaks of Christ as the head of the body, he is ascribing to Him not only the functions of government and all the superiority that belongs to the brain, but also many other functions that today are known to be performed by other organs, especially the heart; for as the body is supplied with its life-giving blood by the heart, so also Christ's Mystical Body derives its vital circulation from Him.

- The Tremendous Lover, Dom Eugene Boylan
