Today, in the cutest voice, my 8-year-old daughter asked me to start recycling. I asked, "Why?". She replied, "So you can help me save the planet." I chuckled and asked, "An why do you want to save the planet?". "Because that's where I keep all my stuff."

Breaking Out of the Shell of Selfishness

It takes time to grow to a maturity of the heart... Little by little, as we live and work with others, especially if we are well-guided, we learn to break out of the shell of selfishness and self-centredness where we seek to be brilliant and to prove our goodness, wisdom and power. We receive and give the knocks of life. We all have to discover that there are others like us who have gifts and needs; no one of us is the centre of the world. We are a small but important part in our universe. We all have a part to play. We need one another.

When someone looks at the Cross in a contrite spirit before making his Confession—in spite of the loathing that afflicts him on account of his sins, in spite of the anxiety about not being able to recognize and recall everything—he knows that he can be sure of the Lord's help; he knows that the Son immediately makes this help available in the presence of his Father by interposing himself, his sufferings, for the sake of the penitent. He steps in with the whole weight of his Passion so that the penitent can be encouraged to tread the path of the sacrament full of confidence and can also dare to look up to the Cross, which has for him absolute value. But in this word there is even more: an invitation from the Son to all sinners to participate in his Cross.

*I believe in you, Lord,
when I cast out my nets one and one hundred times,
and I draw them in wet, empty, almost broken.
I believe that you test your chosen ones,
because when the seed is sunk down into the earth
then it can better take root in God.
I want to abandon myself to you,
that you may place me near you,
as a seal on your heart.*
