GOSPEL REFLECTION

I HAVE SINNED AGAINST THE LORD

God loved David very much because he was, as the Scriptures say, "a man after God's own heart." So God gave him great favours. He made him ruler over all the Israelites. He bestowed on him the gifts of music and poetry (many of our psalms are attributed to King David). Most importantly, he promised that the Messiah would be of David's stock. Thus Jesus was "of the house and lineage of David".

For all his strengths, David had his weaknesses. Power can be abused and David abused it. His most notorious offense was to steal Bathsheba from her husband, General Uriah, and the to "cover up" the adultery by arranging for him to be "accidentally" slain in battle. Truly, the mighty King had fallen low!

But even though he had committed this gross double sin, David still remained a sincere person. So when the prophet Nathan, speaking in the name of God, rebuked him for his crimes, he brought him to his senses. As today's first reading records it, David exclaimed, "I have sinned against the Lord!" And he really was sorry. When Nathan saw his remorse, he reassured him of God's grace. God had forgiven his sin and would not condemn him to death. But David would still have to pay a severe penalty for his offenses, even though they were forgiven. David did not balk. He knew he had it coming to him!

In 1983 the Church observed a special Holy Year in commemoration of the 1950th anniversary of our Redemption through Christ's death. Pope John Paul called on us to repent of our sins and to confess them privately to our priests - the present day "Nathans" - so that we may receive their assurance, "The Lord on his part has forgiven your sins." Pope Francis has declared this year 'The Year of Mercy', a time in which to avail ourselves of God's forgiveness and compassion.

If we are to confess our sins completely and humbly, we must first of all admit that we are sinners, otherwise we may try to excuse rather than accuse ourselves. Therefore, may we who share David's frailty also share his honesty and be able to say with him to God, "I acknowledged my sin to you. My guilt I covered not." (Ps. 32:5).
