Friar's Nook

I had hoped to return to walking through the Mass with you in this column once we return to paper bulletins, but since we are still in a situation where there are so few people who can attend Mass, and thereby pick up a paper bulletin, I'll hold off a bit longer.

Well I'm back, and you haven't seemed to have fixed COVID yet! I guess we'll muddle on with our new way of being. We will try to pick up the things we normally do in the fall as best we can, realizing that we need to maintain the restrictions for everyone safety.

I saw it while I was away in the greeting card section of a store that Hallmark says that October is Clergy Appreciation Month! Thank you, Hallmark, for that. I certainly feel appreciated and I'm glad to be back with you, such as it is. I do long to be with you on a face to face basis, but I guess that will have to wait for now.

While I was away, I received some emails from people offering to volunteer. I'm extremely grateful to them and especially to all those who are volunteering to help us keep moving forward. It's so nice to see you taking responsibility for your parish and it makes my job so much easier in this difficult time. We will try to get RCIA back up and running, albeit probably via Zoom for now, so if you know anyone who's interested in joining the Catholic Church have them get in touch with us soon. We will be scheduling a date for Confirmation soon and we will probably have to have two sessions, one in the morning and one in the afternoon, to accommodate all of our Confirmandi! It's great to see that our numbers are so large that we need to do two sessions. And it's great to see our youth continuing to grow in the church and becoming a greater part of this parish.

I need to get caught up on what maintenance has occurred since I've been gone as we are expecting new railings and new skylights but I'll let you know next week once I find out where we stand with that. I know that the rest of the world is trying to make accommodations to continue in this age of COVID-19 as are we, so if you have any ideas as to how we can continue in new ways please let me know.

A friend gave me a new coffee mug while I was on vacation that I'm looking forward to showing you. In the meantime, I guess I'll just have to drink coffee by myself on Sunday after Mass and think of you. I thank Fr. Ken for holding down the fort while I was away and for the good report he gave me about all of you.

I know these are difficult times to live in right now so we need to keep each other in prayer and to help each other in any way we can to get through this. I've already seen those who have been active in the church grow stronger and have been for me a great blessing and help. Keep your eyes and ears open for those who are especially struggling during this time that we may be a help and blessing for them.

Hope to see you all soon, Fr. Bob
