From the Pastor's Desk:

This week we celebrated the funeral Mass for Fr. James McSharry. In the midst of all that is happening in the world, we have been called upon to stop, to pray, and to reflect. Fr. James has served St. Mary's and the Missions for 9 years, 4 years with Fr. David Reilander, and 5 years with me. During his last year with me Fr. James was slowing down considerably, often getting sick and feeling tired for no apparent reason. I thought it was his age catching up with him, and so I was happy to hear that Bishop Crosby accepted Fr. James' request for retirement. Fr. James was excited about his new adventure, offering his services to the Carmelite Sisters in St. Catharines at the Carmel Retirement Home. My friend Roger and I helped Fr. James with the move on the last Monday of June. One of the benefits of living in a retirement home was that Fr. James would have regular visits with the house doctor who came to see all residents. In the fall the doctor was unhappy with the yellow colour of Fr. James' skin, and requested tests to be done. This is when the cancer was discovered. Even though Fr. James did not feel any discomfort, his appetite for food went away and quickly the signs of his sickness became visible. When Fr. James came up for a visit in October, we all noticed how much weight he had lost. At the next visit in November the change was even more noticeable. In the middle of December I traveled to St. Catharines to accompany Fr. James to see a specialist. The news was not terrible: more tests were to be done and a consultation with a surgeon in Kitchener to determine if an operation was possible. Fr. James was still excited to come to Owen Sound and spend Christmas with us, but I could already tell that he was not strong enough to drive. Shortly after Christmas I received a phone call from the nurse at the Carmel Retirement Home that Fr. James had become too weak to get out of bed. Within days he was rushed to the hospital where he would spend his last days. On Wednesday, January 6 the hospital doctor informed me that Fr. James has maybe months left to live. On Thursday January 7th another call from the doctor to let me know that it will most likely be weeks not months. I made arrangements to have Fr. James transferred to Chapman House in Owen Sound and told the doctor that I will be coming to see Fr. James on Monday. Friday morning another phone call from the nurse taking care of Fr. James telling me: "He won't make it till Monday. Come today". I cancelled all my appointments and drove to St. Catharines. I arrived at Fr. James' bed at 2:30pm. Fr. James was awake, but not communicative. He saw me and his face lit up, he tried to speak but couldn't. I offered Fr. James last rites, along with confession, apostolic pardon, and a final blessing. Then at 3pm we proceeded to recite the chaplet of Divine Mercy. He tried to say it with me, but it was too difficult for him. At the end of the prayer Fr. James fell asleep and did not wake again. At 10am the next day Fr. James died. I am amazed at the speed with which Fr. James left this world in order to go to His Father's house. Where he has gone we too will follow. Life is so precious, eternal life even more so. May God grant us all proper perspective in this life, for tomorrow may be our last, and therefore our first in eternity. Rest in peace Fr. James, may God grant you rest!

Fr. Wojtek Kuzma
