Around the Altar of the Lord

Liturgy of the Eucharist –

The Communion Rite – “The Our Father”

The Communion Rite that follows the Eucharistic Prayer prepares the faithful for the reception of Holy Communion and consists of the Our Father, Rite of Peace, the Fraction and finally Communion itself. The petition in the Our Father “Give us this day our daily bread” makes it particularly appropriate for this place in the Liturgy. Daily bread refers to the nourishment that a person needs to sustain their life, and for the Christian life, this bread is “pre-eminently the Eucharist” (GRIM, 81) that gives life to the soul, “unless you eat the flesh of the Son of man and drink His blood, you have no life in you” (John 6:53). The Rite of Peace follows the Our Father: “Lord Jesus Christ, you said...I leave you peace, my peace I give you. Look not on our sins, but on the faith of your Church, and grant us the peace and unity of your kingdom...” The prayer first recalls that Christ is the source of peace and desires for His Church to receive His peace. Secondly, “look not on our sins” recalls that the peace that is primarily sought is peace between God and humanity and that sin is an obstacle to that peace. We as the bride of Christ redeemed by the Precious Blood that now rests on the altar are able to enter into that peace as members of the Church. The Rite of Peace continues into the Sign of Peace during which the faithful say “peace be with you” and make some gesture of peace towards those who are near to them. This action expresses the unity of peace between the members of the Church while also recalling the sacrificial aspect of the Mass. Christ says in the Gospel, “first be reconciled to your brothers and sisters, and then come and offer your gift” (Matt 5:24). We receive this Eucharist, this Communion as one people, professing belief in His sacred body on the altar and individually. Therefore there should be nothing that separates us neither personal sin or lack of full community with the Church or community with our brothers and sisters who also are members of the Church. By the Rite of Peace, the faithful are prepared to receive Christ who is the source of the peace and unity of the Church.
