MASS MINUTES

WEEK 12

Liturgy & The Psalms

One of the ways Christ is present in the Mass is in His word proclaimed during the reading of the Scriptures in the part of the Mass called the Liturgy of the Word. On Sundays and Feast Days, the Liturgy of the Word consists of two readings, a psalm, and the Gospel. A three-year cycle designed to suit the individual liturgical season and enable the faithful over the course of that three-year period to hear proclaimed as much of the Scriptures as possible determines the reading for each Sunday Mass. The first during most of the Liturgical Year is taken from an Old Testament (unless it is the Easter season, when we read of the beginnings of the Church in the Acts of the Apostles). The particular passage is usually chosen because it relates, often very closely, to the Gospel reading for that Sunday, "The New Testament is in the Old Testament concealed, the Old Testament is in the New Testament revealed" (St. Augustine). The Psalm follows the First Reading. The verses are usually sung by a cantor with a verse that the entire congregation sings as a response between the verses. The Psalm also generally relates to and illuminates the day's Gospel reading. The Second Reading is usually from the New Testament and it need not always relate directly to the Gospel passage. The readings and the Psalm are usually read or sung by a layperson, not by the priest or deacon. The exclamation and response "The Word of the Lord", "Thanks be to God", that follow the readings express the belief of the Church that the Scriptures that are read truly are the written word of God and that God speaks to us through them. By the response, the faithful express their gratitude to God for having revealed Himself to us through these words.
