September 17th - 24th Sunday in Ordinary Time

The multicultural festival — fostering a healthy convivence, faith, and financial support.

In our diverse community of the South London Catholic Family of parishes, fostering a sense of unity and understanding among different cultures has never been more crucial. In retrospect, on the 10th of September, the 23rd Sunday of the ordinary time, the community of St. Francis -St. Martin Parish celebrated its first multicultural festival. The festival not only appreciated our differences but also was geared to promote healthy coexistence, endeavored to provide a platform for the expression of faith, and was committed to contribute to offset the deficit of the church.

It served as a powerful testament to the richness of our community's diversity, bringing together people of various ethnic backgrounds and traditions to share cuisine, music, and art. Through the celebration of diversity, the faithful and those invited were given the opportunity to gain a deeper appreciation of the cultural tapestry that makes our community vibrant and colourful. It was very clear from the onset that at the heart of the festival rests the promotion of healthy convivence and by engaging in open dialogue and interaction, barriers of misunderstanding and prejudice can be broken. There were interactions and open exchange of ideas and experiences that would foster tolerance, acceptance, and respect among individuals from different walks of life. It was a chance for our community to come together, to learn from one another, and realize that our differences are what make us stronger.

Moreover, the festival offered a unique space for the expression of faith. The monumental temple on number 46 Cathcart Street is more than just a building, it is a center for spirituality and community. Like many churches in today's world, we struggle with financial deficit. Through the multicultural festival, we hope to harness the collective power of our community to provide much-needed support.

A multicultural festival that celebrates diversity, fosters healthy convivence, and supports our community is a powerful and meaningful endeavor. It is not just an event; it is testament to our commitment to building a more harmonious and inclusive society through faith. We have celebrated the first one and we are counting...
